Preparation of the Body

FRIENDS encourages clients to use natural methods and materials for your funerals. We believe in non-toxic and non-invasive body preparation whenever possible. The process of embalming includes pumping 2-4 gallons of formaldehyde into the body, which will later be stored in the earth or causes residue during cremation.

Except in certain special cases, embalming is not required by law. Embalming may be necessary, however, if you select certain funeral arrangements, such as a funeral with an overnight viewing or international shipout. If you do not want embalming, you have the right to choose another arrangement, such as direct cremation or immediate burial. (We are by law required to provide you this information.)

If you want to arrange a direct cremation, you can use an alternative container. Alternative containers encase the body and can be made of materials like fiberboard or composition materials (with or without an outside covering). The containers we typically provide are cardboard. Other alternative containers can be special ordered as needed for an additional charge.
